The modern age developed knowledge but at the expense of wisdom. The result has been ecological disaster, destitution for the indigenous people everywhere, loneliness and a loss of meaning and shared values in our lives. Religions have too often promoted an exclusivism which has rent the human family apart and separated us from what unites us. We need a spirituality which brings wisdom back to our relationship with nature, to our work, to our educational systems, to “all our relations.” One that speaks to the “aching hearts” of the younger generation and to deep ecumenism or interfaith / interspirituality.

Matthew Fox will explore how creation spirituality can help us move to hope by awakening us to our divine origins, to the new creation story from science, to eco-justice and gender justice, to the wisdom shared in faith traditions of East and West, to panentheism or the presence of God in all things and all things in God and of indigenous people everywhere. The awakening of the Divine Feminine and the Sacred Masculine can help to unleash creativity and sustainability. A new balance of Yin and Yang, Feminine and Masculine, is needed. In these ways we can be transformative agents of healing and wholeness in the 21st century.

This day of retreat will include lectures and practices to awaken spirit in us as we learn from pioneers of consciousness, the mystic-prophets of the past and present.
